

GENERATION
RIESLING

Frankfurt | June 13th 2016

Generation Riesling 10 Years Young

Let me put it this way, 10 years ago German wines were not really at the forefront of fashion and popularity. In the UK especially, our wines suffered from old stereotypes and we needed a new approach in order to communicate exciting changes which were occurring in the German wine regions: a dramatic rise in the quality of our wines, a new wave of fresh ideas in cellars, in vineyards and on bottles, and a new generation of very well trained, internationally minded dynamic and ambitious young wine-makers.

In June 2006 we held a wine tasting in London with 25 young winemakers, and this marked the birthday of a movement which now has over 530 members all over Germany. Generation Riesling has grown into a driving force inside the German wine industry and is now the world's largest community of its kind.

We, the German Wine Institute, are very proud of our 'baby' which is becoming a teenager. With a new logo, ever more members and many new ideas, we look forward to the next decade of Generation Riesling events, parties and wines, of course.

Happy Birthday!

Anniversary event:
Generation Riesling – 10 Years Young

Gerhard Retter, Sommelier

„Generation Riesling hat die Stieflheit aus der Weinwelt verdrängt! Die neue Deutsche Welle des Weinbau ist Generation Riesling.“

Hendrik Thoma, Master-Sommelier

„Es ist wie im Fußball, denn ohne gute Jugendarbeit gibt es keinen Spitzenteam. Mit der Generation Riesling ist etwas ins Leben gerufen worden, was das Interesse an deutschem Wein insgesamt verstärkt.“

Stuart Pigott,
Weinkritiker, Autor und Journalist

„Die Generation Riesling steht für die Haltung der neuen kreativen Generation von deutschen Winzern, die dem deutschen Wein einen erheblichen neuen Schwung gegeben haben.“

Foto Bettina Keller, Berlin

Billy Wagner, Sommelier

„Es ist ein Verdienst der Generation Riesling, dass der deutsche Wein wieder jung ist! Der Staub wurde von der Flasche abgewischt!“

Meininger's weinwelt 4/2016

„Die junge Generation steht immer mehr für das stetige Streben nach neuem Wissen und ist auch bereit, dieses mit anderen zu teilen. Bestes Beispiel sind die zahlreichen Jungwinzerorganisationen, allen voran die Generation Riesling.“

quench magazine – Canada, 11/2013

„Up-and-coming vintners of Generation Riesling use new ways to reach consumers, create wines in the dry style, focus on quality instead of quantity and have changed labelling and pricing structures.“

Foto Ildo Höpping

Caro Maurer, Master of Wine

„Aus der Generation Riesling hat sich eine engagierte Bewegung entwickelt, die heute für viel frischen Wind in der Weinszene sorgt. Es ist vor allem der zwanglose Umgang mit dem Thema, der ein neues Gefühl und auch eine neue Leidenschaft für deutschen Wein weckt.“

The Drinks Business 11/2012

„The success of campaigns such as Generation Riesling has helped open the doors to German reds in export markets, particularly in Scandinavia.“

Nikolas Rechenberg, GOURMETWELTEN

„Die Generation Riesling ist zum dynamischen Motor für den deutschen Wein geworden.“

Jancis Robinson, Master of Wine

„It is also quite easy to find the German wines that are underpriced: by heading for up and coming younger producers who are not (yet?) members of the prestigious VDP association of top estates. There are various organizations such as Generation Riesling that can provide a short cut to the winning combination of ambitious winemaking with relatively low prices.“

Stuart Pigott

Stuart Pigott writes about all the wines of the world, but it was with the wines of Germany that his journalistic career began in 1984, and he has been covering them intensively ever since. Based in Berlin and New York, he is a prolific publisher of e-books (on Kindle), blogger (see www.stuartpigott.de), writer for magazines around the world, and has been the wine columnist of the Sunday edition of the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung (Germany's equivalent of the New York Times) since September 2001. During that time he has followed the Jungwinzer or young winemaker phenomenon in Germany closely, not least because it has no equivalent anywhere else on Planet Wine. He has given encouragement and critical advice to many members of Generation Riesling over the last decade, and in his opinion the dynamism of Germany's young winemakers is still too little appreciated internationally.

Foto Bettina Keller, Berlin

Billy Wagner

Billy Wagner is a repeat Sommelier of the Year and host at his eatery Nobelpunkt & Schmutzig (1* Guide Michelin / 16 points in Gault Millau) in Berlin. After stops at Nuremberg's Essigbrätlein restaurant, Zur Traube in Grevenbroich, Vintage in Cologne and the Monkey's Plaza in Düsseldorf, he came to Berlin in 2008 as host and sommelier at Weinbar Rutz. His passion does not end with wines. Besides other drinks, finely cooked meals hold sway in his heart as well. His restaurant is intended to inform its guests about the wide range of products available in Berlin and its environment. "Vocally local," one might say.

Thus Billy Wagner advocates for the philosophy of regional wines, believing that no good wine grows in poor soil. In his passion for good products he is very attentive on latest developments and regarding German wines Generation Riesling vintners – for him – achieved to give „German wines“ a new dynamic face and along with it great wines.

Hendrik Thoma, MW

Hendrik Thoma began his career as a chef, and it was at this point that he caught the "wine-bug". After an inspiring trip to Napa Valley in California he undertook the Master Sommelier Diploma in London. His time working as head sommelier at Hotel Louis C. Jacob in Hamburg was also formative; he spent 13 years there shaping the wine selection, and thanks to his innovative ideas he turned the five-star hotel into an international pilgrimage site for wine aficionados. After this he spent a short period as "Head of Wine" at Metro AG. Since 2009 Hendrik Thoma has been self-employed and uses his unconventional style to share his passion for wine. He believes that authentic products are the most important thing, together with passionate characters, of which the Generation Riesling winemakers are good examples. And as a result he is causing a stir in the wine industry with his "Vinotainment" as a columnist, author and above all with his show "Wein am Limit".

Gerhard Retter

Gerhard Retter was raised in his family owned restaurant in Styria, Austria. He completed an apprenticeship at the College of higher gastronomy in Bad Gleichenberg, Austria. Afterwards he worked for several 3 Michelin restaurants, e.g. Eckart Witzigmann at the Aubergine/Munich or Gordon Ramsay/London. Since March 2009 he runs his own Restaurant Zur Fischerklause near Hamburg. In addition he realized the idea of new wine bar the CORDOBAR in Berlin with partners. Gerhard was decorated and honored multiple times as Maître of the Year in both, Austria and Germany. Moreover he received great recognition as Sommelier of the Year. Due to his knowledge he wrote for several magazines about wine and food. He has experienced the changes German wines underwent during the last decade and is very pleased with the positive development. He enjoys working with the Generation Riesling wineries as they have managed to give people uncomplicated access to German wines.

Der Ursprung guten Geschmacks

Trockene Weißweine mit naturgeprägter Säure und mineralischer Komponente aus z.B. Riesling oder Weißburgunder sowie leichte Rotweine aus z.B. Spätburgunder oder Trollinger werden vom dezent feinperlenden SELTERS LEICHT hervorragend begleitet.

Als Ergebnis einer wissenschaftlichen Studie der Hochschule Geisenheim University, bei der europäische Premium-Mineralwässer getestet wurden, erhält Original SELTERS ein Zertifikat, das eine ideale Mineralisation und eine sehr gute Eignung beim Genuss von Wein bestätigt.

Weitere Informationen zu der Studie sowie zum erteilten Zertifikat finden Sie unter www.selters.de/selters-wein

Founded by the German Wine Institute in 2006, Generation Riesling has grown into the world's largest community of young winemakers. Comprising over 500 well-educated, internationally-experienced and highly ambitious members who are all under 35 years of age. With a deep sense for the heritage of 2,000 years of winemaking in Germany, they have become a driving force in the German wine world with new ideas in the vineyard, in the cellar and on the bottle. Being Germany's most important and most eminent grape variety, Riesling's fame and reputation stand for all of Germany's wines.
